- 1-52. (Canceled)
- 53. (Currently amended) An array comprising:

an optical fiber; and

a library of chemical compounds proteins or peptides attached to the optical fiber in a linear arrangement, the library being combinatorial in that its members can be are generated via chemical reactions in which a first set of moieties is attached to a second set of intermediates so that a larger number of products is produced than different chemical reactions are performed; and

a geometric substrate about which the optical fiber is wrapped in a spiral and in a single layer of fiber about the substrate.

54. (Currently amended) An array comprising:

an optical fiber;

a collection of chemical compounds proteins or peptides linearly arranged along the optical fiber; and

a geometric substrate about which the optical fiber is wrapped in a spiral and in a single layer of fiber about the substrate.

55. (Currently amended) An The array comprising:
